

Castle, Timothy N.: Tim Castle joined the CIA History Staff in August 2006 following a tour with the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) where he established and directed the Intelligence Community Lessons Learned Center. Before his service with the ODNI, Dr Castle was Professor of National Security Affairs and Director, Security, Strategy, and Forces, at the U.S. Naval War College. Prior government responsibilities include Deputy Chairman, Department of Warfighting, U.S. Air War College, and Chief, Southeast Asia Archival research, POW-MIA, in the office of the Secretary of Defense. His areas of specialization are Modern Southeast Asia, U.S. Foreign Policy, and Special Operations. Dr Castle is a career Air Force intelligence officer with wide-ranging Asia experience, including two tours in Southeast Asia during the Vietnam war. Since then he has traveled extensively throughout Laos, Cambodia, Thailand, and Vietnam. His latest visit to Southeast Asia was in January 2006 when he traveled to Dien Bien Phu, Khe Sanh, and the Mu Gia Pass. He is the author of One Day Too Long: Top Secret Site 85 and the Bombing of North Vietnam, Columbia University Press, 1999, and At War in the Shadow of Vietnam: United States Military Assistance to Royal Lao Government, 1955-1975, Columbia University Press, 1993. He is currently under contract with Columbia University Press to write a history of the U.S – Thai security relationship.